CONSUL SAITO IN PUUNENE CASE

JAPANESE PHYSICIANS WANT TO EXAMINE ORGANS OF THE DECEASED LABORER.

The Japanese consul has taken up the matter of the Puunene murder case, and asked the attorney general's department to secure the heart and kidneys of the dead Japanese and have them brought to Honolulu to be examined by Japanese physicians. The consul called upon Deputy Attorney General Peters on Saturday night and Peters referred the matter to Andrews, who in turn asked President Pinkham of the Board of Health to take it up and have the organs sent here if possible.

Consul Saito said that Doctors Mori and Ushida wanted to examine the organs of the deceased. He was told that if it was not too late arrangements could probably be made for bringing the organs here for a further examination. In the autopsy at Waiuku, three white physicians found that the cause of death had been heart disease caused by kidney trouble, while a Japanese physician held that the injuries and shock suffered by the deceased had caused the failure of his heart.

M. S. LEVY HAS GONE TO REST

WELL KNOWN HONOLULU MAN PASSES AWAY AFTER A PAINFUL ILLNESS.

The death occurred at 1 o'clock on Sunday morning of Michael Sigismund Levy at the age of 33. The deceased was well known in Honolulu, having been here for some twenty years. He was a native of Posen, Prussia. He was at one time in the dry and fancy goods business in Honolulu, but later he was in the employ of the business office of The Star. For some time past he has been seriously ill from stomach trouble and at times he suffered intense pain. He passed away at the Beretania street home of C. H. Ramsay. The deceased was a widower, his wife having died some nine years ago.

The funeral was held yesterday afternoon under the superintendence of the brother-in-law of the deceased, Samuel Ehrlich. A large number of friends accompanied the remains to the Pearl Harbor cemetery where a simple Jewish service was performed.

SHRINERS CAGE THE NOVITIATES

AMUSING SCENE ON SATURDAY WHEN THE HOT SANDS WERE CROSSED BY THIRTEEN MORE.

The spectacle of thirteen respectable citizens caged in a huge black dungeon on wheels and driven through the streets by a negro in a policeman's uniform was what Honolulu had to offer on Saturday afternoon to relieve the tedium of the dog days. The prisoners in this novel "Black Maria" were guarded on every side by Aloha Temple's Arab Patrol for they were candidates for initiation into the mysteries of the Shrine. The novitiates were J. A. Lyle, S. P. Woods, J. H. Howland, T. H. Petrie, D. McKenzie, H. H. Simpson, W. T. Rawlins, F. L. Waldron, J. Lando, J. McKinnon, W. H. Hoogs, H. A. Taylor, John Melanphy. The candidates were put through the first part of their initiation at the Masonic Temple and then were led blindfolded down stairs where a large crowd waited outside to see the fun. Having been duly penned in, the novitiates were given permission to take off their blinders and there were roars of laughter from the lookers-on when the amazement of the caged ones at their situation was depicted on their faces.

The cage was drawn through the streets by a sorry looking team of mules while jocular friends sought to feed the prisoners with peanuts and strips of raw meat.

The procession moved by Alakea, King and Fort streets to Progress Hall, a Chinese band leading it and playing every discord known and hitherto unknown.

What passed within the initiation chamber is known of course only to the shriners, but from the grins of novitiates and old timers yesterday, it is to be gathered that the initiation was in every sense a howling success.
